

This site is about my thoughts and emotions reflected in my essays, reviews, rants, short stories.....

My narcissistic showcase. Related to the pleasures, trials and tribulations of living in Mumbai, India and this world.

This site is at present non-collaborative. In other words, it contains only my thoughts and writings, except for some material from other authors whose work I find inspirational, and some orphan pieces of terrific writing which keep floating around authorless on the net.

Who am I? What do I do? Why Man from Matunga? These are irrelevant questions. In any case, my writings should eventually provide all the answers.

This site is constantly evolving. I write on an average one piece every 5-6 days and if you don't want the bother to come back to the site each time to check for new stuff, click here and type "Yes" in the subject line to be put on my notify/mailling list.

Click here to react to my writings. Criticisms and brickbats are particularly welcome. Replies are assured.
